DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments filed on Feb. 17, 2004 have been fully considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 19-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Taniguchi (5,841,520).

Taniguchi discloses a device manufacturing method and a scan type exposure apparatus, comprising: a first stage (RST) on which a first object (R) is to be placed; a second stage (WST) on which a second object (W) is to be placed; a projection optical system (PL) for projecting a pattern of the first object on to the second object; a scanning mechanism arranged to scanningly move said first and second stages in a timed relation with each other, relative to said projection optical system, while the pattern of the first object is projected by said projection optical system on to the second object (col. 23, line 17-33); and a signal system to store data corresponding to a change in an exposure condition in a storing means (56), wherein the change in the exposure condition is produced in response to scan motion of at least one of said first and second stages and in accordance with one of scan acceleration and scan speed, while scanningly moving at least one of the first and second stages (col. 39, line 37 – col. 43, line 45), said signal system further being systemized to control a drive of the first and second stages in an actual exposure process so as to compensate for a change in the exposure condition, while reflecting a correction value, as determined on the basis of the data stored to the driving of at least one of the first and second stages with respect to a focus error of the projected image (col. 44, line 66 – col. 46, line 29). Taniguchi also discloses drive control means (13) for changing a scan speed of at least one of the first and second stages on the basis of the stored data (col. 30, lines 22-53). Taniguchi also teaches measuring the data corresponding to the change in the exposure condition by obtaining data of a projected image of the first object being formed on the second object through the projection optical system with respect to deviation of the projected image of the pattern of the first object upon the second object (col. 1, lines 30-61).

Response to Arguments

Applicant argues that Taniguchi does not teach controlling the drive the first and second stages to compensate for a change in the exposure condition. Applicant also argues that Taniguchi teaches lowering of the velocity of the stages to obtain a desired accuracy of the image formation characteristics. Applicant argues that the present invention achieves the required exposure condition without lowering the throughput.

Regarding the amendment, even if Taniguchi only taught lowering of the velocity of the stages as argued by applicant, Taniguchi is still compensating for the change in the exposure condition. Further, the language of the independent claims is directed only to controlling of the stage driver or controlling the scan speed, which read on the teaching of Taniguchi. Taniguchi further teaches correcting the focus and the deviation of the projected image.

Conclusion

Art Unit: 2851

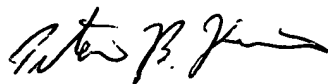

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
